In re: PAU HUA NI

File: A77 047 590

On June 21, 2000, the Executive Office for Immigration Review found that you were eligible for asylum based on resistance to coercive population control methods. The Executive Office for Immigration Review ordered that you be granted asylum on a conditional basis. The order was conditional because, under section 207(a)(5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, not more than 1,000 persons can be granted asylum or admitted as refugees pursuant to a persecution claim based on resistance to coercive population control methods in a fiscal year.

The Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS), Department of Homeland Security, has informed the Executive Office for Immigration Review that you have been allocated a number within the 1,000 cap. Accordingly, the condition on the Executive Office for Immigration Review grant of asylum in your case has been removed and you have been granted asylum as of December 18, 2003.

You are eligible to apply for employment authorization with USCIS based on the approval of your asylum application. In addition, you may apply for permanent residence status with USCIS one year after the date of your final grant of asylum, as noted above. Any dependents listed below may be eligible for the same benefits. For more information about asylee benefits, access the USCIS web site at <http://www.uscis.gov/grahics/services/asylum/types.htm#grant> and review the "Grant of Asylum" section. If you have any questions regarding your case, please direct your inquiry to the appropriate office below:

On June 21, 2000, the Executive Office for Immigration Review found that you were eligible for asylum based on resistance to coercive population control methods. The Executive Office for Immigration Review ordered that you be granted asylum on a conditional basis. The order was conditional because, under section 207(a)(5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, not more than 1,000 persons can be granted asylum or admitted as refugees pursuant to a persecution claim based on resistance to coercive population control methods in a fiscal year.

The Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS), Department of Homeland Security, has informed the Executive Office for Immigration Review that you have been allocated a number within the 1,000 cap. Accordingly, the condition on the Executive Office for Immigration Review grant of asylum in your case has been removed and you have been granted asylum as of December 18, 2003.

You are eligible to apply for employment authorization with USCIS based on the approval of your asylum application. In addition, you may apply for permanent residence status with USCIS one year after the date of your final grant of asylum, as noted above. Any dependents listed below may be eligible for the same benefits. For more information about asylee benefits, access the USCIS web site at <http://www.uscis.gov/grahpics/services/asylum/types.htm#grant> and review the "Grant of Asylum" section. If you have any questions regarding your case, please direct your inquiry to the appropriate office below:
